The lightest weight rear light on test, the Stick Drive is one that you might dismiss when set against the chunkier competition. But while it may not have a huge footprint, the light is bright with good side visibility, plus it is incredibly well thought through in terms of ease of use. It is mounted using a standard rubber band fixing; removing the light reveals the charging stick that plugs directly into a USB port. Mode memory switches onto the last used beam. A good light at a great price.
